

Project Update: March 2022

In the same area where we have been working with the Rufford project, we also come to a hybrid canid of African wolf and Ethiopian wolf, see the photo. The head is typical of Ethiopian wolf and the other body part is typical of the African wolf. The hybrid is one of the members of the Ethiopian wolf with six members.

As you probably know, the African wolf project was supported by Rufford. The African wolf is the last large mammals discovered by the team which my self was involved by 2011.
