

Project Update: February 2014

Along with working on collection of secondary materiel on the Asiatic lion and designing the Interpretation Centre, I have made three scoping visits so far. During these I visited the Kuno Sanctuary to understand the landscape where the reintroduction will occur. I was accompanied by two tribal trackers with immense knowledge of the area. I have also interacted intensively with students and teachers of the Adharshila schools for whom the Interpretation Centre is being set up.

Interviewing local tracker

Kuno sanctuary landscape

School in displaced village