

Project Update: September 2015

Raining season finally have stopped (this year was longer than expected, El Nino phenomena). Half of the enclosures were built, three more left. I have had spoked with land owners, builders and have all the materials bought to build them in the next month.

On sight that I have some dry month ahead and I already have 20 surveyed plots, I will do 10 more to have a more suitable pool of data.

At the green house several sapling of different species from the collected seed are waiting to the next selectivity trial. It will be perform next month.

Yala Enclosure.

Measuring adult trees inside the enclosure with an assistant.