

Project Update: July 2016

The project is progressing well so far. The different community groups prepared their nurseries. The seeds have grown and they are now transplanting into the potting bags. From July 5th to 8th, 2016 we embarked on primary school visits. We managed to visit eight primary schools just to mention a few; Segere Primary School, Mbagu Girls' Boarding Primary School and Osoro Primary School. With the schools we had sessions on environment conservation, threats facing our environment and how the pupils can come in to help manage some of the problems. The pupils watched a video on "How Green is your School", which was shot in a school in Naivasha town, Kenya known as Langa Langa Primary school by the Earthwatch, United Kingdom team. The pupils were challenged by what Langa Langa pupils were doing, and said they will also work hard to make their schools green.

A community member of Friends of Yala Swamp preparing potting bags ready to transplant seedlings. Photo by Margaret Owuor

Nursery with the seedlings ready for transplanting. Photo by Aaron Okoth

Aaron Okoth during a school training session in Osoro Primary School. Photo by Margaret Owuor

