HIMALAYAN BLACK BEAR

- Asian black bears are dwelling in daytime,
- though they become nocturnal near human habitations.
- They may live in family groups consisting of two adults and two successive litters of young.
- They are good climbers of rocks and trees, and will climb to feed, rest, sun, elude enemies and hibernate.

HIMALAYAN BLACK BEAR

- Half of their life is spent in trees and they are one of the largest arboreal mammals.
- Asian black bears break branches and twigs to place under themselves when feeding on trees, thus causing many trees in their home ranges to have nest-like structures on their tops.
