

Project Update: March 2011

I attach Snow Leopard Scouts from Mt. Everest -- a sketch booklet – targeted to school students, their parents and other stakeholders to generate their interest on conservation.

Because it is their effort, participating students are expected to share the booklet, that vividly illustrates their own contributions, with their parents, teachers, fellow villagers, and cohorts in the other schools.

All participants, snow leopard scouts, took part in outdoor activities. They were exposed to snow leopard habitat, encouraged to observe Himalayan tahr and other wildlife, and were engaged in nature debates, essay writings, a quiz contest, and wildlife drawings. All formed the basis for preparing this simple (trial) booklet and all materials for the booklet came from participating students.
