

Project Update: August 2010

Recent activities not included in final report:

PRESENTATIONS

1) Presentation: Avifauna de la Región de Arerunguá, Salto, Uruguay [Birds of Arerunguá Region, Salto, Uruguay]

Place: Aves Uruguay (BirdLife International's Partner in Uruguay), Montevideo, Uruguay.

Date: April 15, 2010

2) Presentation: Ecología y Conservación de la Loica Pampeana en campos privados del departamento de Salto, Uruguay [Ecology and Conservation of Pampas Meadowlark in Salto department, Uruguay]

Place: Seminario Conservación y Uso Sostenible de la Biodiversidad [Conference on Conservation and Sustainable Use of Biodiversity], Piriápolis, Uruguay.

Date: April 16, 2010

3) Presentation: Aves Comunes de Arerunguá [Common Birds of Arerunguá]

Place: Boquerón de Cañas Rural School (Arerunguá, Salto Department)

Date: April 20, 2010

4) Presentation: Aves de la Región de Arerunguá, Salto, Uruguay [Birds of Arerunguá Region, Salto, Uruguay]

Place: República University, Salto department Division, Salto City, Uruguay.

Date: April 22, 2010

5) Presentation: Aves de la Región de Arerunguá, Salto, Uruguay [Birds of Arerunguá Region, Salto, Uruguay]

Place: Aves Argentinas (BirdLife International's Partner in Uruguay), Buenos Aires, Argentina.

Date: July 21, 2010

MEDIA

1) Title: Áreas Protegidas de Uruguay: Arerunguá [Uruguayan Protected Areas: Arerunguá]

Publication Date: July 20, 2010

This article was published by the most popular Uruguayan newspaper (El País).

There is a quote on page 9 about the conservation status of the Pampas Meadowlark. On page 18 there are factsheets about Pampas Meadowlark and Ochre-breasted Pipit. A text in the "gray box" reads: "The grassland bird studies in the Arerunguá region have been kindly supported by the Rufford Small Grants Foundation". The RSG logo is included on the top of the page.

2) Title: Ficha Loica Pampeana (Pampas Meadowlark Factsheet)

To be published soon in the same newspaper as above.

This article will be published in a magazine designed for school children.