

Project Update: November 2016

Under the Project “Community Based Human-Carnivores Conflict Mitigation in Gehrate Gol Community Game Reserve Chitral, Pakistan II” training workshop on basic veterinary and livestock management skill training for the male and female members of Village Conservation Committees was organised with the collaboration of Livestock & Dairy Development Department Chitral. Before going to the training, the VCCs was requested to nominate their members for the said training. A proper training manual was also developed with the technical assistance from Livestock Training Specialist (LTS) in local language to be used in the training. Two separate training events were conducted for male and female members each. About 18 people (male and female) participated in the training workshops. The training was based on theoretical and practical field work, where beside the theoretical sessions, practical training on vaccination, livestock management, fodder management, coral management and artificial insemination were also conducted in detail.

Next activity: Livestock vaccination campaigns.
