

Project Update: March 2018

During the second period of the project (23rd September 2017–23rd March 2018) the focus was on preparing the first workshop for all relevant stakeholders, after negotiations with involved forest agencies and other target institutions (Institute of Genetic Resources University of Banja Luka, faculties and NGOs). Considering that employees of all relevant forest agencies were on a collective annual holiday almost to the end of February 2018 (due to abundance of snowfall), the workshop had to be postponed for the March 2018, although it had been planned during January 2018. The workshop was preceded by the determination of collected plant herbarium material, work on Power Point presentations, and printing the advertising material (t-shirts and leaflets) as well.

The workshop was held on the International Day of Forest (21st March 2018) and achieved all scheduled goals.

1. All relevant forest agencies (Prijedor, Banja Luka, Gradiška and Teslić) are willing to cooperate, and ready to continue the work on monitoring of rare and endemic plant species in the preliminary defined permanent sample plots within their regular activities for Forest Management Certification (FSC), which is obligatory, but still not at the desired level, for each FA in the country.
2. The Institute of Genetic Resources was offered the logistic support for collection of plant material for planting in just established botanical garden within the university campus.
3. All NGOs, and faculties as well, were very interested for Rufford Foundation and how to fulfil the application, so first part of the workshop was dedicated to this issue.
4. The general guidelines for future activities were defined, including field visits together with employees of certain forest agencies, and what the final brochure have to contain."
