

Project Update: October 2018

Beginning from where I had ended last update in June 2018, we had started a very dry season, which ended in September in our Village Nalutuntu. We then started planting tree seedlings, because we had cleared a land for the habitat. While continuing our biodiversity conservation objective. We are continuing the activities, especially now we are concentrating on creating the habitat by planting seedlings. This is due to the fact that it's a rainy season we want to use the chance of the rain to make our trees grow.
