

Project Update: October 2018

MEDIA

After publishing an article about our research in the regional newspaper, other national and regional newspapers published information about our activities (more can be seen in the links below) as well and thus highlighted the importance of our attempts to investigate the grey wolf population in the Bosnia and Herzegovina.

THE FESTIVAL OF SCIENCE

We had the opportunity to participate at the Festival of Science, which was held in Banja Luka, Bosnia and Herzegovina on the 6th November 2018, organised by the Ministry of Science and Technology of the Republic of Srpska. This was a great opportunity for presenting of our research to all festival visitors, mainly school pupils and university students, citizens, but the representatives of the government, as well, and to indicate the importance of our research.
