Future for Nature Award: March 2009

Mohammad says 'It is my pleasure to inform you that I won the prestigious award of Future for Nature in Burger Zoo, Arnhem, the Netherlands. A total of 148 wildlife conservationists from 56 countries around the world participated in the competition and I was selected due to my efforts for the cheetah and the leopard in Iran. I received the award from Sir David Attenborough and I am sure it will be a significant milestone in my personal life. I would like to thank you so much for your advice and help which empowered me to do my job in the best way'.
