

Project Update: March 2021

The project is going well. We already have more than 100,000 migratory raptors recorded at our count site, in spite of the weather (very wet lately). We already have some virtual activities for training people about raptor migration. We have one for the public in general and we are working to develop virtual education for schools.

