

Project Update: September 2021

Up to now, we started the project in Bahía Malaga, we have made contact with the community and the local environmental leaderships for the permission of the work.

Also, I have worked with Moisés and Alex (the men that are helping me with the driving of the boat) and Isabel Cristina (an expert in whales here in Colombia)

I also have made contact with Javier Oña (an expert in bioacoustics from Ecuador) and have worked with him some days making the recordings and identifying the whales. I have made some recordings of marine soundscape and groups and individuals of humpback whales.

Currently I'm still doing the field phase here in Bahía Málaga, we have talked to the community and still getting the approbation of some of the afro descendant leaderships. We plan to make a workshop with the community to tell them the benefits (economic and environmental) of a responsible tourism.
