

Project Update: September 2008

In May I attended a meeting in Surinam organized by the Association for Tropical Biology and Conservation. There I presented some data I collected during the past field seasons. As a result of this presentation, my research was featured in the Mongabay web site: http://news.mongabay.com/2008/0714-hance\_bats\_atbc.html

After that meeting, I went back to Los Amigos for the last season of field work. I and my assistants finish collecting data about bats that visit collpas and we did our last trip upstream the Los Amigos River to collect water samples from all sites we sampled bats during the study. It was a great season.

